Chief Technology Officer

Brown Promoted from Senior Vice President of New Product Development to Company's Highest Technical Post

Irvine, CA, March 24, 2011 – Bankruptcy Management Solutions, Inc. (BMS) announced today the promotion of Al Brown from Senior Vice President of New Product Development to Chief Technology Officer (CTO). In this position, Mr. Brown will be responsible for developing and executing BMS's technical strategy and leading its technology team to capitalize on innovative opportunities.

"We are very fortunate to have Al's expertise, forward-thinking, and strategic guidance to propel our innovations in the areas of bankruptcy case administration solutions and other complimentary technology offerings," said Steve Coffey, Chief Executive Officer of BMS. "The CTO role at BMS requires a senior executive with strong leadership skills, technical background, and a passion for delivering value to clients." said Coffey. "With Al's knowledge, skills and attitude, BMS will continue to provide genuine innovation and next generation solutions to keep moving the industry and our clients forward."

"BMS's commitment to investing in technologies to provide cost effective and creative solutions that enable clients to run their businesses more effectively also allows us to continue our growth," said Mr. Brown. "At BMS, we have an incredible opportunity to really provide intuitive, easy solutions that completely revolutionize how our clients do business," Mr. Brown continued, "this allows our clients to either grow their business significantly or spend more time doing what they love to do. I am honored to be part of the team."

Al Brown brings significant technology and operational expertise to BMS. Prior to joining BMS, Mr. Brown served at IBM where he was responsible for strategy for Emerging Standards in Enterprise Content Management. Prior to IBM, Mr. Brown co-founded eGrail a pioneer in the web content industry later acquired by FileNet. Mr. Brown holds a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics and Computer Science from Colorado School of Mines and a Masters in Business Administration from the University of Southern California.
